

ADVENTURE TRAVEL TO AFRICA

Africa is such a huge and diverse country, there are any number of ways to explore the Dark Continent.

“Adventure travelers,” reports Leora Rothschild, the native South African owner of Rothschild Safaris based in Santa Barbara, “can go game viewing, canoeing, visit Cape Town (one of the 10 most beautiful cities in the world), experience diverse cultures and swim the beautiful beaches.” She also recommends snorkeling and scuba diving incredible coral reefs right off the coast of South Africa, as well as Zanzibar’s Spice Island or the Seychelles. There is so much to do that Leora recommends “combining a bit of everything.” She helps folks do this by designing and booking custom-designed safaris.

“This is definitely not for the faint-hearted,” warns Leora. “You’ll spot crocodiles along the bank as well as hippos!” Travelers are escorted by an armed game ranger who knows the area and the ways of the animals. “This is an AMAZING adventure,” promises Leora.

THE FACTS: If you’re thinking of a trip to South Africa, or for more information, contact Leora at Rothschild Safaris.

Published in Food & Home, June 2000